

DELEGATES CHEER WHEN TAFT WINS

Roar of Approval Greeted Nomination of the War Secretary.

CHICAGO, June 18.—This hot weather is a test for feminine interest in a political convention.

The same standard on which the budding orator based the conclusion that his first public speech was a success—the fact that more stayed than went away while he was delivering it—might be applied to femininity and the convention.

Certainly many more have stayed until the sweltering end than went away, therefore the convention must be a success from a woman's viewpoint.

The heat in the convention hall is terrific, and many women and a few men were overcome and cared for at the Emergency Hospital.

But this did not frighten other women. They watched the limp forms carried out on every hand, without fear, apparently, that they might be the next, and fanned themselves continuously with the fans provided by the various campaign managers.

No Recess Taken.

Most of those who attended in the morning had an idea that an adjournment would be taken shortly after noon. But the session dragged on with never a thought of a recess, and those who had not had the forethought to provide themselves with luncheon, and were not among the elect, who had invitations to Mrs. Upham's buffet luncheon, began to get hungry.

The elect got hungry, too, but with these it was not tragedy, for there was plenty provided in the "Upham suite," which the tiny reception room, with its woe too stairway, is called, for such were hidden to partake of the hospitality there afforded.

Physicians at the Providence Hospital this morning gave encouragement for W. S. Knox, of the Knox Express Company, who has been seriously ill for nearly two weeks.

He was reported to have rested easier last night and was stronger this morning than he had been for some time.

Mr. Knox's illness took a serious turn June 7, when he was removed to the hospital. Two days afterward it was found necessary to perform an operation of a serious nature.

Mr. Knox suffered a relapse afterward and was unconscious for two days. His trouble is organic in its nature and it is understood that in addition he is suffering from a dropsical affection.

MOTHER OF TURTLES, HEN GETS A SCAKE

PITTSBURGH, June 18.—A bantam hen owned by Frank Sterling realizes today what it means to have ungrateful offspring.

Several weeks ago, John Truman, a friend of Sterling, found six turtle eggs. He gave them to Sterling, whose bantam had been fussing around for several days, insisting on rearing a family, much against the will of Mr. Sterling.

Because the hen was so persistent, Sterling finally placed the turtle's eggs under her. She did her duty as a mother to perfection.

One day this week, when she felt something moving under her, she swelled up with pride. Then her legs were grabbed in three different places by as many little turtles, which had just been hatched out. With a cackle of terror, the hen hurried from the nest and disappeared. The turtles are doing well.

200 PORTUGUESE LAND IN THE NORTH

NEW YORK, June 18.—Fifteen days out of Cape Verde Islands, by way of Madeira, the Maria Luisa, a steamship of Lisbon, Portugal, is now in this port after discharging 200 passengers at New Bedford, Mass., all workmen bound for the interior of New England.

One of the singular features of the Maria Luisa is that she carries her own live stock for slaughtering, and that this stock is of a variety particularly suited to the appetites of the Portuguese sailors and laborers. There are goats for food and milk, pigs, sheep, canary birds, quail from the Pyrenees, mountain dogs, and a thoroughbred Andalusian donkey.

The Maria Luisa is of 500 tons gross register, intended for immigrant and freight traffic, and this is her fourth trip to this port. Her captain is G. Alvarado, and her first officer, John Silva. She is awaiting orders, and will probably steam for Portugal within a few days.
